Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Why Not a Federal Building in Glendale?

AT a well attended meeting last evening the West Glendale Improvement Association passed a resolution urging the postmaster general to amend his recent instructions calling for the rental of additional postoffice facilities, and to ask for tenders of a suitable site on which to erect a Federal building.

* * *

THIS is a move in the right direction and one that should have the support of all Glendale citizens.

Glendale is of enough importance to justify a Federal building and with proper representation to the authorities by our senator and representative we feel quite sure that the appropriation can be secured.

* * *

WITH a jump from quarters occupying 2500 square feet in July, 1922, to 5000 square feet to a request in less than a year for quarters to occupy 12,000 square feet it looks to us as if it would take little argument to convince the postoffice officials of our need of a Federal building.

DID you ever notice that at public meetings some people talk too much, and that generally the right people don't talk enough?

There is a great tendency among our business men to keep quiet at the wrong time. When a proposition of general interest to the community comes up a majority sit like clams and let a few propagandists put a deal over without making a move either for or against it. They seem to be afraid if they talk they will be accused of talking too much or trying to run things. If they really have the interests of their community at heart they should get rid of this idea. Why worry about being criticised—they will be anyway—and it is better to be criticised on account of doing something than to be accused of doing nothing.

* * *

IF you are not an orator, don't let this deter you, anyone can tell what he thinks about a proposition without orating on it.

You, Successful Business Man, give your city the benefit of your good judgment by joining in the discussions of things of community interest.

MONDAY as "Shopping Day" in Glendale is proving to be quite popular. In making the rounds of the stores of those who have entered the list having Monday specials, we find quite a satisfied feeling for the Mondays of the past few weeks, and quite an air of optimism for the future success of Monday as shopping day.

There is no reason why Monday should not be a good shopping day. It should be better than Saturday for during the hot weather of summer most people go out for auto rides and use the day for a day of recreation.

We hope the time will come before long when all Glendale stores will close Saturday afternoon and allow their employees a day off. This could be done without the loss of any trade to speak of. It would only mean a little adjustment in the shopping time of the housewives.

CHILDREN DELIGHTED

Community Service Scores Success With Dainty Show

BY CORINNE ORFF

With standing room only available to the late comers, a most creditable performance of "The Land of Dolls," a musical comedy for children written by Alice Wolff and Sigmund Alexander, was presented at the high school auditorium last night under the auspices of Glendale Community Service by the pupils of the Woods' Studios. The children were trained, costumes designed and the play produced under the personal direction of Mrs. Nanno Woods, assisted by Misses Dorothy and Kathleen Woods and reflects much credit on them for the untiring efforts they put forth to make it the big success it was.

The scenes "In Doll Land" were indeed most real for the large number of children who were present to witness the play, and the grown-ups equally enjoyed the fairies, dolls and others taking part as was evidenced by the spontaneous applause which greeted the players when the curtain rose on the scene in "The Land of Dolls."

The cast for this musical comedy included the following:

Minnie, Saxon Barney.
Bessie, Katherine Doane.
Queen of Fairies, Dorothea Bourne; Fairies, Evelyn Molz, Katherine Henry, Grace Anderson, Charles Rives.

Fat Sing, the Chinese cook, enacted very cleverly by Joseph Taylor.
Judge Scare Em, Russell Taylor.
Captain of the Army, Neoma Sprinkle.
Soldiers, Franklin Anthony, Gordon Woodbury, Dorothy Nash, Elizabeth Haviland, Virginia Kuykendall.
Dolls of Doll Land, Arline Roberts, Dorothy Bissenger, Ethel Ware, Carol Payne, Helen Seneff.

Some very promising material was displayed by a number of these pupils, all of whom did very good work in presenting this dainty bit from the land of make-believe.

The second half of the program consisted of the following specialty numbers:

Dance, "Jingle Bells," by Virginia Farrow, Nedra Wilson, Ruth Bender, Carol Payne, Neoma Sprinkle, Dorothea Bourne, Dorothy Doane, Johanna Michel.

EXPERT AID TO SUMMER PLAY HERE

Mrs. John R. Case Volunteers to Assist Community Service

HAS HAD EXPERIENCE

Calls on All Young Women of City to Attend Dinner

President V. M. Hollister and Director Ernest Tucker have been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. John R. Case, Jr., to captain the campaign for the organization of a summer program of recreation in Glendale, under Community Service. When interviewed in regard to the matter, she said:

"While this program will take in all citizens, it especially has in view the young people of the city.

"Extensive plans are at this time almost complete for a summer recreational program. Interesting activities will be arranged for the young people of Glendale, so that they will not find it necessary to go to neighboring communities for their good times. The first big rally of this splendid progressive movement will be a supper for young women at the Tuesday Afternoon club Thursday evening, June 14, at 6:30, for which a nominal charge of 75c will be made. At this time details of this program will be discussed and each girl will be given an opportunity to designate those activities in which she is especially interested, and those forms of amusement which she feels Glendale at this time lacks.

"Great pains have been made to reach each and every girl, either living or working in Glendale. Invitations have been sent to them. The committee feels it has missed many who would be interested in this program and Mrs. Case at this time extends a very cordial invitation to all girls, whether they have had the more formal invitation or not. Should there be any girl who finds it impossible to get there for the supper and program, she is cordially invited to come later in time for the general discussion which will follow immediately after.

"The proposed summer recreational program will include such forms of activities as swimming, horseback rides, tennis, dances, dramatics, minstrel shows, organization of glee clubs and specialized forms of orchestras best adapted to summer good times.

"Each girl in designating the activities which she is interested in automatically allies herself with other girls having a common interest, where a chairman is appointed by the members themselves to work with the central commitee in completing this broad program. By becoming a real part of the organization and feeling a certain responsibility for the selection of a competent chairman to represent her, success of the activities is assured.

"This well rounded program now being worked out by Glendale Community Service is still another way of standing by the slogan, 'Make Glendale a City of Neighbors,' and in so doing making it possible for these young people to live a fuller and richer life, not in other communities, but right at home."

The members of the social recreation committee in charge of the present summer program are the following: Mrs. John R. Case, Jr., chairman; Mrs. Chas. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. C. C. Cooper, Miss Myrtle Helmer, Cyrus Smith, Rev. Chas. M. Calderwood and Mayor Spencer Robinson.

COUNTY VETERANS OF SPANISH WAR TO PICNIC HERE

Gathering Scheduled for Verdugo Park on July 4

Spanish War Veterans and their families from all parts of Los Angeles county will flock by the hundreds to the Glendale Verdugo park on July 4 when one of the old style "Fourth of July" picnics will be held.

F. C. Butler of this city has been placed in charge of the picnic arrangements, and gives the assurance of a genuine gala day affair, when the greased pig race, the greased pole "stunt," potato races, three-legged races, dashes, a baseball game, and all the necessary accessories to the successful picnic will be arranged for.

To this ideal picnic spot the veterans, their wives and children will come in great companies from Los Angeles and the beach cities, armed with an array of baskets, lunch kits, and a battery of coffee pots and baked bean pans that will make the hands of the clock seem to be weighted with tons of lead, before the noon hour arrives.

It is to be a day when the baked bean will be king, and the barbecued meat prances high, wide, and handsome above the blazes that will be kindled in the many outdoor fire places. And such coffee as the campers will make, its teasing aroma carrying the "vets" back to the days of battle, when they would cheerfully have given their right shoes for a cup of the same golden fluid, but instead retained the shoes.

There will be a lively baseball game in the afternoon.

The combatants have not been announced up to the present time,

WEST SIDERS ASK FEDERAL STRUCTURE

Want State Commission to Pass on S. P. Station Site

URGE NEW BRIDGES

Meeting of Improvement Association Discusses Extensive Program

Between 50 and 60 members of the West Glendale Improvement association met Tuesday evening at the Columbus avenue school for the regular monthly meeting of the organization over which R. Streit presided as its executive head.

In connection with the discussion of a number of matters of civic interest, the stand taken by P.-T. A. associations in that section of the city relative to the replacement of bridges across the wash with concrete structures because of their unsafe condition, was endorsed.

Considerable criticism was directed against the city council for "entering into a partnership with private interests" in proposing to buy lots on which to locate the station of the Southern Pacific railroad instead of allowing it to remain where the corporation proposed to place it.

The question of a Glendale postoffice was also considered. The discussion finally crystalized in two resolutions. One offered by J. R. Gray, seconded by J. B. Burns which carried unanimously, read as follows:

"Whereas, the city of Glendale is greatly in need of a suitable freight and passenger depot with adequate means of ingress and egrees, and

"Whereas, the question of ingress and egrees to said depot is now and has for some time past been the cause of considerable controversy between the city council, the directors of the chamber of commerce, and the people of the district; such controversy having now reached an impasse, and

"Whereas, it would appear the people's interest will greatly suffer by reason of said disputants inability to agree; therefore be it

"Resolved, by the West Glendale Improvement association in meeting assembled at Columbus avenue school, this 12th day of June, 1923, that the council of the city of Glendale be and is hereby requested to submit the entire matter to the state railroad commission for a definite ruling that will protect the interests of all the people. Be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the city council and the state railroad commission for the earliest possible action."

A second resolution which concerned the postoffice proposition, was offered by M. E. Young, seconded by L. Badour, and also carried unanimously as follows:

"Whereas, prior to the first day of July, 1922, the postoffice of the city of Glendale occupied a space of 2500 square feet, and on that date moved to new rental quarters exceeding 5000 square feet, and

"Whereas, the postmaster general is now within one year calling for bids for rental of 12,000 square feet, thus evidencing the phenomenal growth of Glendale, and

"Whereas, the population of Glendale, now in excess of 40,000 and increasing very rapidly, would sustain and is entitled to a Federal building. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the West Glendale Improvement association in meeting assembled in the Columbus avenue school, this 12th day of June, 1923, that the postmaster general be advised of the above facts and respectfully urged to amend his instructions calling for a rental proposition to ask for tenders of a suitable site on which to erect a Federal building. Be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the postmaster general, and also to Congressman Lineberger and Senator Shortridge urging immediate action; and also to the various organizations in the city of Glendale for their approval."

E. G. Warren Reports One of Biggest Sales of District

E. G. Warren, the live real estate man of South Brand boulevard, reports one of the big deals on East Colorado since Glendale has been recognized as the best and the fastest growing city in the United States.

This property of 143 feet on Colorado boulevard between Adams and Verdugo road was sold for approximately $20,000, and the buyer bought the property for an investment only, believing that it will net him a profit of $50 a front foot in from six to nine months.

"This, to people who know values and understand possibilities," said Mr. Warren, "is a very conservative estimate of the profits on this class of property and its location.

"It is considered that East Colorado business frontage is a better buy at the prices asked than Brand and Broadway, and many investors in business property are purchasing on Colorado instead of the higher priced business streets."

GIRLS' LEAGUE TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Girls' League election will be held at 12 o'clock at the Glendale union high school tomorrow.

Nominations for all offices were made in assembly at noon today, and the election is expected to hold the interest of the entire student body until the results are known. Guellian Warner and Katherine Stosst, both popular students at the school, have been named for the office of president, and were formally introduced to members of the Girls' League in assembly today.

The election will be held tomorrow in the roll rooms.

VAUDEVILLE ON THURSDAY AT T. D. & L.

Pantages and the Orpheum stars will be at the T. D. and L. theatre in the regular weekly Thursday night vaudeville this week.

There will be the Royal Tropical Marimba band of Gautemala, in weird music and jazz of the tropics; Earl and Lewis, in "Musical Mokes," a riot in themselves:

Hope Hampton in "The Light in The Dark"

Janis and Chaplow in "S'Karpet," captivating youngsters; Maurice Samuels, in character impersonations and Jack Roshier and Pal, in posing pooch.

Clarence L. Brown, director for the Hope Hampton productions, has assembled a powerful cast for Miss Hampton's forthcoming First National feature, "The Light in the Dark," which will be shown at the T. D. and L. theatre Thursday night.

In support of Miss Hampton will be found such film celebrities as Lon Chaney, E. K. Lincoln, Dorothy Walters, Dore Davidson and Edgar Norton.

Chaney, who many regard as the best portrayer of the crook type of character in the silent drama, portrays the part of a reformed East Side crook of New York, giving him ample opportunity to display the genius and ability which has made him famous in this sort of role. He will be remembered best for his work in "The Miracle Man," "The Trap," and more recently in "Bits of Life."

SCIENTIFIC WAY OF FIXING WAGES IS DEVELOPING

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 13.—Development of a scientific method for fixing upon fair rates of pay for printers is being attempted at headquarters of the International Typographical Union here. W. R. Trotter of Vancouver, Can., second vice-president of the union, has assumed charge of a statistical department which will gather figures and information on living costs and conditions of trade in all districts and cities within the jurisdiction of the union.

"Our first purpose," said Mr. Trotter, "shall be to determine whether or not an increase in wages for printers in any given city is justified. In case it shall appear that a raise is needed we shall furnish the local union with information that should be helpful in determining the amount of increase that reasonably may be asked.

"The state of trade, the productivity of workers, the degree of prosperity in the city and the cost of living will be studied by this department before any recommendations are offered. Various government reports, trade publications and other sources of information will be resorted to in making surveys.

"The aim is to strive for greater harmony between employers and union members and to eliminate the clashes that sometimes occur when the union man says simply that he wants a raise 'because he needs it,' and the employer replies that he can't give the raise 'because he can't afford it.' We would substitute sound argument and reasoning for the contest of economic necessity wherever possible. Men who reason may be brought together in compromise more easily than men who consider nothing beyond their own individual needs."

K. OF P. UNITE IN BROOKSIDE PICNIC PARK

Knights of Pythias of Glendale, Pasadena, Monrovia and Van Nuys and other surrounding cities will unite in a get-together picnic at Brookside park on the afternoon and evening of June 22.

The invitation was extended the Glendale chapter at the meeting last night at the Knights of Pythias hall at Brand and Park, when a large delegation of Pasadena members were present and told of the plans that had been effected. The Glendale members joined heartily into the arrangements and a general good time is planned.

The meeting last night was voted the best to be held by the local chapter for many months. Two were initiated into the rank of page and three in the rank of esquire.

Chapter Commander Melzer and Master at Arms Long, accompanied by Attorney G. H. King, will visit the Mare Monte lodge at its next meeting, it was announced.

LITERARY FOLKS HAVE FINAL MEET OF SEASON

Mrs. J. E. Sergent Is Honored for Work as Curator

Members of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club held the final meeting of the club year yesterday morning when a short business session was held in the basement of the public library, followed by a delightful luncheon party at the Harriet Mae tea room. As Mrs. J. E. Sargent, who has endeared herself to the members of the session, whom she has served as curator, has been elected as a member of the executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon Club for the coming year, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox was selected to head the section as curator.

Special guests at the luncheon, which was attended also by forty-three members of the section, were Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Miss Katherine Sinks and Miss Corinne Orff. A feature at the luncheon was the group of parodies, written to the tune of some of the popular songs, and also yells appropriate to the Tuesday Afternoon Club and its various officers. These had been arranged by a committee consisting of Mesdames Sawyer, Gallagher, Wilcox and Garlinghouse.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, was called upon and responded with a delightful speech in which she thanked the section for its co-operation and in giving to the board of directors one of their members, Mrs. Sargeant, and also in the choice of the new curator, Mrs. Wilcox. Mrs. Campbell presented Mrs. Sargeant with a card of friendship and also presented Mrs. Wilcox with a card entitled "Why Worry," admonishing her of some of the "griefs" of an office holder.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of ways and means for the club, was next called upon and urged the co-operation of the members during the summer by volunteering a small portion of their time in helping at the luncheons which the ways and means committee will serve various organizations.

A very beautiful tribute was paid to Mrs. Sargeant by Mrs. Wilcox, who presented her with a basket of coreopsis, forty-three in number, one for each member of the section, and greenery, yellow and gold being the club colors. She said in part, "although one might have a good automobile with a fine engine, yet sometimes a new tire adds to its efficiency and smooth running. So it will be with Mrs. Sargeant, who will be the 'new tire' to the club's executive machine. It will be found that she will cover the ground and will run true."

Both Mrs. Sargeant and Mrs. Wilcox responded with appropriate words in answer to the various talks given.

SPANISH WAR VETS TO HAVE PICNIC

but with the inspiration afforded by the great crowd which is expected to be present, it is safe to say that a real skirmish will be enacted before the spectators.

No one will want to miss the chase after the greased pig, which, according to the latest reports, still grunts a challenge to the devotees to the old-time picnic and county fair fun. Equally amusing will be the greased pole and those who have seen it once will need no further information in order to assume that it will be a spectacle worth seeing.

The hot dog will have a place in the sun, without doubt, for there are booths and more booths, where the luscious morsel will be fried to a queen's taste. A country store, where candy, ice cream and other tempting confections will be sold, is also to be at the service of the picnickers.

In the evening there will be dancing to such music as the Glendale-Verdugo park enthusiasts never before heard, and until midnight this will form the favorite outdoor sport, although no endurance tests will be allowed, it is stated.

MRS. VAN DYKE IS LECTURER AT THE TUESDAY CLUB

Pasadena Decorator Gives Interesting Talk With Views

Speakers at the regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club were R. F. Kitterman and Mrs. Van Dyke, an artist and professional decorator of Pasadena, who gave a most interesting talk illustrated by stereopticon views of gardens and interiors illustrating the points emphasized.

Owing to the various matters of business and other propositions to be considered by the club, the last speaker was not introduced until about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Kitterman asked for an indorsement by the club of the chamber of commerce and its drive for members, and Mrs. Campbell, the president, assured him every member in her organization was back of the chamber of commerce and the work it is trying to do. A letter to that effect will be sent the chamber.

Mrs. Charles Buck of the Brookline, Mass., Women's club was a guest and was introduced by Mrs. Campbell.

Another distinguished guest who responded to introduction with an excellent little speech, was Mrs. J. S. Payne of St. Louis, Mo., president of the federation of that state, who will be prominent in the sessions of the biennial convention of the national organization to be held in Los Angeles next year. She particularly emphasized the civic work of women's clubs in St. Louis and the help they had rendered in passing important bond issues.

Mrs. Campbell directed attention to the fact that the Tuesday club will not only participate in the biennial but it will also be the hostess of the district Federation of Women's clubs of which Mrs. Charles H. Toll is president, and she introduced to the audience Mrs. John Dunn, who has been serving the club as secretary, as the secretary-elect of the district federation, an announcement greeted with great applause.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means, reported returns from the Madrigal club concert as $74, and from the exposition concession under Mrs. Freeman Kelley as $75.75. She asked members to supplement their fruit canning and preserving operations this summer with extra jars and tumblers of jelly for the club leader.

Mention was made of the tickets for the annual club luncheon of June 26 which will be served by the hospitality committee under Mrs. Colin Cable. As the seating capacity of the banquet hall is not sufficient to accommodate the full membership, those desiring to attend were urged to make their reservations early through Mrs. Barton or Mrs. Cable.

The list of club gifts announced by the president included a check for $100 from Mr. Powers, decorator of the club house; a clock for the auditorium from Arthur Dibbern; flower bowls from Mrs. R. L. McCourt; ferns from Mrs. McCormick, and the loan of a picture from Mrs. R. W. Meeker.

Mrs. Campbell then referred to the losses the club has suffered during the year by reason of the death of members—Mrs. James Connor, Mrs. Harriet White, Mrs. Mary Gridley Braly, Mrs. Eugene C. Frank, and Mrs. Pearl Tower, a past president of the club to whom she paid a special tribute, declaring she had been called because she had finished her work here and God had work for her in other spheres. She then introduced Mrs. C. A. Parker, Mrs. John Cole, Mrs. Charles Meadows and Mrs. A. M. Draper, who softly sang "In the Time of Roses," in memory of Mrs. Tower.

Mrs. Freeman Kelley, chairman of programs, who will be leaving in July for Australia, submitted her annual report of expenditures of $494 under the $600 allowed the committee, leaving a balance of $106, of which $100 had been expended for a proper stage screen for moving pictures. The announcement was greeted with applause and the screen was used for the first time in the talk given by Mrs. Van Dyke.

Mrs. Kelley also stated that the $6 balance had been donated to the piano fund. A rising vote of thanks was then given Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. R. E. Chase, curator of the drama section.

Preceding the talk by Mrs. Van Dyke, Miss Flora Phyllis Kilpatrick sang "A Spray of Roses," followed by a negro lullaby as an encore number, Mrs. Grant serving as her accompanist. She has a voice of great volume which is wonderfully sweet and clear in pianissimo, and her numbers were much enjoyed.

The business of the day also included the reading by the secretary of the names of 69 new members.

Mrs. Van Dyke's address was full of valuable hints. She declared in decoration and furnishings the most difficult thing to secure is "quality," but that simplicity is an essential element in achieving it. She also declared that nothing is more important than individuality, i. e. making a house or a room express the owner rather than the decorator. The clever working out of difficult problems with a small amount of money, was revealed in the very interesting slides with which the address was illustrated.

COME NOW THE GRADUATES OF THE SCHOOLS

Stores of Glendale Are Stocked With Gifts and Mementoes

By JENNIE SWENSON

Once more graduation time is announced. There is a sense of hurry, mystery and a general feeling of much to do, and a very little time in which to do it, the date of the commencement exercises for the high school students having been set for June 21, and for the grammar schools, June 22.

On another page of this issue will be found a distinct aid to mother, father, sister, brother or friend who is searching for the appropriate gift for the graduate. The merchants are vieing with one another to please the graduate at this time, and all who contemplate the purchase of gifts will find their suggestions very helpful.

For the "sweet girl graduate," of course the dress is the first and foremost question. Pendroy's and Ferber's both offer vide selections in the graduation dress. These are shown in white voiles, organdies and silk crepes, in the simple and pleasing styles that form the chief attraction of the graduation dress. Then there are the white shoes, hose and other appointments forming the graduate's outfit, in pleasing variety, from which to choose.

What could be more appropriate as a gift to the girl graduate than one of those white gold wrist watches. Those who do not already possess these little treasures certainly have had a longing for one, and nothing could please them better.

Ed N. Radke of the Gift Shop, 139½ South Brand boulevard, as will be noted, has a nice selection of these in the newest styles and shapes. He also suggests the dainty diamond ring, with the small set which is appropriate for the very young miss.

E. E. Dall of 136 North Brand is also offering some very acceptable suggestions in jewelry, both for the girl and for the boy graduate. White gold bracelets, boys' and men's watches, waldeman chains, pen knives, pearl beads and ear drops, white gold rings for diamonds, sterling belt buckles and cuff links.

Quite a variety of gifts are suggested by Webb's. Novelty beads, with earrings and bracelets to match, pearls, fancy combs, silk bags, vanity cases, all form attractive things to please her. In addition very practical offers are made on white footwear, which the occasion demands. For the boy, Webb's offers waldemar chains, knives, white gold cuff links, also in gold plate and enamel.

In addition to the graduation frocks, Pendroy's offer's pearls, hosiery, gloves, lingerie, shoes, ivory and toilet goods. Many of these items are specially wrapped to be given as gifts.

The question of flowers must not be forgotten. It will be found that the Palace Grand Florists, in Jensen's Palace Grand Shops is particularly equipped to furnish the suitable bouquet for the graduate. Here will be found many varieties of dainty blossoms, including the rose, carnation, sweet pea, aster, and also the heavier flowers, such as dahlias and gladiolas.

Last but not least, the graduate should not forget that school days are the happiest of one's life, and the kodak pictures form a delightful and significant review of the events of school days. Woodsom's Foto Craft Shop at 24½ North Brand advises the graduate to get that kodak into condition, in order to take those last precious shots during the last week of school.

At Woodson's the kodakist will find that his kodak will be given expert attention, and the faults in its mechanism corrected, free of charge. Woodson's also furnishes a prompt service, so that the pictures that are taken to the shop before 9 o'clock in the morning, are ready to be delivered to the customer at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

These then are some of the things these merchants are offering, and their scale of prices will be found on another page of this issue.

While the New England Furniture company is not advertising any particular item to be found in its attractive store, it has given a God-speed to the future "home builders" of America, and are certain to lure a large number of these graduates into their show rooms, when the time comes for that June wedding, some June after this.

From the Lewis Jewelry company advertisement it will be learned that the jewelry store furnishes a most satisfactory house of gift suggestions. A number of these will be found to be listed in the advertisement, and upon visiting the Lewis Jewelry company store at the Jensen Palace Grand shops, one will see a convenient card bearing the gift suggestions listed, in order to help the undecided to choose.

From Fanset, the expert cleaners and dyers, comes additional congratulations to the graduate, and an invitation to bring those dainty white sport clothes for summer to this modernly equipped shop at 213 East Broadway, court shop number 1. When tired of the white garments, Fanset will make them any color desired.

The workings of the Direct Action, no-bottom-in-oven range will be cheerfully explained to the high school graduate visiting the Coker & Taylor store, 209 South Brand. O. J. Merrill, salesman for these ranges, states that when school is finished, he knows that there will be many interested in learning the important features about the home, and chief among these is the range where the "three squars" are cooked.

B. D. Jackson, photographer of 10 East Elk avenue, has recently returned from a two weeks' trip to Yosemite valley and the big trees, where he secured many fine stereoscopic views of matchless scenery.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL MEMBERS TO GIVE PARTY

A hundred or more members of the Glendale Baptist Sunday school gathered at the Baptist church Tuesday night to bid farewell to R. C. Morgan, teacher of the "S. F. O." class of the school, and others of the class including A. L. Chandler, George McLeod, W. W. McElroy and others who will also spend the summer in the east.

Rev. E. E. Ford gave a short address on the good work that is being done by Rev. Morgan in the school and the church. Rev. Morgan stated that he and his wife had decided to return to California and resume work in the Baptist Sunday school.

TOM GIBBONS IS NO CINCH, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Jack Dempsey no doubt will do very little real serious training to prepare himself for the defense of his title against Tommy Gibbons in Shelby on July 4.

The champion insists that he is not underestimating the ability of his challenger and that he considers himself in for a hard fight.

His real opinion of the ability of Gibbons, however, is reflected in the attitude of his manager, who is working up other contests for the champion with the apparent idea that Gibbons is already defeated.

One wit in New York made the crack that all the training Dempsey would have to do to get ready for the ring on July 4 would be to grow a beard. Jess Willard didn't even take the trouble to let his whiskers grow at Toledo, and it is history what happened to him.

It is all a matter of opinion, but those who are considering Gibbons as such a set-up for the champion should consider that no fighter, no matter how great he is, can afford to stay out of the ring for two years and go back against any kind of an opponent without getting himself in good condition.

Gibbons is being underestimated by practically all of the critics in the east. Some of the feeling against the challenger can be traced and some it is due no doubt to the desire to make light of the fight, because it is not being staged in the east.

Tommy Gibbons is a dangerous fighter and a good fighter. He will be in condition because he has been fighting a lot in the last three years and he always keeps himself in shape.

If the feeling that Gibbons is a mark for Dempsey is at all general among the fight fans, all over the country, there are the makings of the biggest surprise in years in the Shelby bout.

'LOVE IN THE DARK' OPENS AT THE GLENDALE

Wnisome Viola Dana to to Be Seen in New Film

"Love in the Dark," in which Viola Dana is starred, will be seen for the first time tonight on the screen of the Glendale Theater. It is a very entertaining and wholesome screen play, and it should please the audience. The photoplay is a comedy-drama, and the humorous situations are just as numerous as the dramatic scenes. The combination of fun and plot was throughout enjoyable.

Miss Dana was never cast in a role which made greater demands upon her versatility and skill. "Love in the Dark" combines the various elements which makes Miss Dana the popular actress which she is. She is given ample opportunity to indulge in her distinctive brand of comedy, and at the same time she is called upon to do some dramatic acting which might have proved difficult for an actress less skilled. Miss Dana was equally convincing and charming in her emotional as well as in her comic scenes.

The story of "Love in the Dark" is concerned with an orphan, Mary, who is adopted by a woman, one of a band of crooks. Mary's job is to take care of little Red. When the police interfere with the workings of the gang, Mary obtains a position with a kindly minister, whose son is being cheated by a crook. In the employ of this unscrupulous gambler is a former member of the gang which Mary knew. The plot complications are many and varied, and the element of surprise is never lacking. The greatest surprise comes in the conclusion of the story, which is too good a secret to give away.

MADRIGAL CLUB SCORES SUCCESS

Concert at Presbyterian Church Wins Much Appreciation

The concert given by the Madrigal club at the Presbyterian church last night under the auspices of the Presbyterian Women's society was a distinct musical triumph, every number meriting the high degree of appreciation evidenced by the audience.

Under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Parker, the Madrigal club presented the chorus numbers splendidly, with Mrs. John A. Wright as accompanist and Miss Lila Leitch, organist.

Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, Mrs. A. M. Draper and Mrs. Virginia Freeman were soloists for the evening. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery presented two beautiful readings. "The Lost Chord," with Mrs. Virginia Freeman, soloist, was a most impressive number. "Mah Lindy Lou," with Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, soloist, was enthusiastically received.

Flowers were presented to the soloists of the evening. The floral tribute intended for Mrs. Montgomery was delayed, however, but was sent to her home this morning.

HUNSBERGERS FIND WORLD IS VERY SMALL

"The world is a pretty small place after all."

That is the conclusion at which Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hunsberger have arrived, according to word from Mrs. M. L. Hunt of 412 West California, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunsberger, who are traveling in the east, giving the following account in a letter to Mrs. Hunt of a strange happening in Royerford, Pennsylvania, where they are now stopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunsberger were walking down one of the main thoroughfares in Royerford, when they heard the exclamation, "Oh, there's my plumber!" As Mr. Hunsberger was one of the leading plumbers in Glendale before going east, he took it that the remark was directed at him, and found that his conjecture was right.

Mrs. Arthur Well, formerly of Glendale, he found had been surprised into the ejaculation. He learned that Mr. and Mrs. Well are touring with the Apollo Concert company, and were appearing with the chautauqua at Royerford at that time.

Mrs. Well is reported to have said that when they reached Glendale again, she would never again leave the state of California, proving the old saying, "Though many miles away, my heart's in Glendale, Hurray."

Mr. and Mrs. Hunsberger are planning to return to Glendale the first of July, it was announced.

NEW TEACHERS AT LA CRESCENTA ANNOUNCED

Alfred Blanford of Glendale Schools to Head Faculty

LA CRESCENTA, June 13.—Alfred Blanford, for the past seven years athletic superintendent of the Glendale grammar schools, has been secured by the trustees of the La Crescenta school district to act as principal for the coming year. The trustees feel they are most fortunate in securing Mr. Blanford as he is highly recommended as an educator. Additional instructors employed for the coming year include Miss Edith Rhea, Mrs. Ester Eyre, Mrs. Flora Mueller, Mrs. Rose Greenberg, Miss F. King, Miss Sara Conlin and Miss E. Rasmussen. Mrs. Eyre will have charge of the Montrose school. The attendance during the past year has increased so rapidly that it is expected there will be over 300 pupils enrolled for next year.

In the election of 1912 Roosevelt's popular vote was two-thirds of Wilson's, and Taft's was about 70 per cent greater than the remaining one-third of Wilson's. Out of about 15,000,000 votes cast for all candidates running for president, Wilson received only 6,286,000, less than half. In 1920 Harding's popular vote was 16,152,200, while that of Cox was 9,147,353.

The Sound Basis For a Bank Loan

A BANKER'S first duty is to his depositors. His second duty is to make loans to those customers who are in worthy productive enterprises, of benefit to the community. Before loaning, he should assure himself that the loan is sound by satisfying himself as to the following:

(1) Does the borrower's character and history indicate a good moral risk?

(2) Is it his practice to repay when due?

(3) Is the purpose for which the money is to be used a worthy one?

(4) Are his plans for meeting the obligation at maturity sound and is the prospect good?

(5) Has he other means of payment if his plans are unsuccessful?

The banker who follows this formula will protect his depositors and stockholders and render constructive service to his community.

PENDROYS GIVE DAINTY DINNER AT THEIR HOME

A most delightful evening was spent by a group of prominent Glendalians at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Pendroy, 332 North Brand boulevard, Tuesday evening, when a farewell dinner was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Prather, who leave today for their home in Excelsior Springs, Mo.

The dinner table around which the 12 guests were seated was decorated with a large basket of various kinds of flowers. The favors for the ladies were candle holders, cunningly devised in the shape of flowers, with a candle in the heart of each. A most tempting menu was served, the dainty appointments of the table lending an added charm to the delicious viands.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Prather, of Excelsior Springs, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Oliger of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Stoker Bennett of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson and Capt. and Mrs. Thomas D. Watson.

After the dinner, the guests were taken to a downtown theatre, where the remainder of the evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Helffrich of 515 East Lexington delightly entertained a group of friends at their home Monday night in farewell to Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Allison of North Campbell, who are leaving for the east Saturday.

The evening was spent in games and several musical selections were given. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Mishler, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Eyerick, Mrs. Fred Boss and Russell and Albert Newton and Margaret Helffrich.

Surprising J. C. Waite of 429 West Lomita on the occasion of his birthday, the members of the Navajo Needlework club, with their husbands, gathered at Mr. Waite's home Monday night for a merry evening of congratulations and fun.

The game of the evening was 500. The guests brought light refreshments with them, which were served late in the evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Koontz, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. BUSINESS WOMEN HOLD BUSY MEET

Reports Submitted by the Committees on Club Work

At the regular business session of the Business and Professional Woman's Club held Tuesday evening in the new headquarters at 224 South Brand, reports were submitted by Miss Clara Sayre, chairman of occupational committee: Miss Helen Tupper, chairman of friendship committee; Miss Alice McCoy, chairman of legislative committee; and Miss Ethel Ford, chairman of membership, and Dr. Elizabeth Early, chairman of programs. All of these have selected members whom they desire to have serve on their committees and whom they will notify, naming time and place of meeting for committee conference.

The treasurer, Mrs. Anita Anderson, reported funds on hand sufficient to meet all outstanding indebtedness and leave a balance in the treasury.

Mrs. Joseph Whytock was elected chairman of the outing committee, and the selection of a chairman of the visiting committee was delegated to the president and cabinet members.

Dr. Early and Mrs. Gilman, a member of her committee, outlined plans for the club social evening, Tuesday, June 26, which will include a supper at the Harriet Mae Tea Room at 6:30 with an after-dinner speaker and some musical numbers, followed by an evening of cards, bunko and other games at the club headquarters at 224 South Brand.

Miss Cora Wilson and Miss Hausam, of the Vocational Alliance which has been carried on as a part of the work undertaken by the County Federation of Business Women's clubs, explained plans for the reorganization of that department and asked for the continued support of the Glendale organization. They stated that during the eight months in which it has been functioning it has received 600 orders and made 469 placements, the effort always being to select the worker who will best fill the requirements of the position. So well has the alliance served its business patrons that there has never been any difficulty about orders for workers to fill vacancies. No fee has been charged the seeker for a position heretofore, the work being supported by contributions of corporations who are glad to support the movement, the University Women's Club, and the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. All friends of the work are now asked to take out individual memberships in the alliance ranging from $1 to $5, and the Glendale club voted to refer to a subsequent meeting the proposition to renew the club's membership in the Alliance which will cooperate with the work of the local occupational committee headed by Miss Clara Sayre.

Mrs. John Case, who has consented to take the chairmanship of summer recreational work for Glendale Community Service, was present and explained the working plan of Community Service in general. Its efforts to start this work in Glendale at the Community Service dinner was set forth to be served at the Tuesday Afternoon Club Thursday evening of the present week to which all the young women in the city are invited to come and express their desires as to the kind of summer recreations they desire to have Community Service inaugurate.

Mrs. Case seemed somewhat disappointed in regard to the number of reservations sent in for the dinner which is to cost 75c a plate, but said it was explained in part by the fact that although the announcement cards were mailed Friday, the great majority of those to whom they were addressed did not receive them until Tuesday.

She indicated that as soon as an expression has been secured from the young women of the city concerning the recreation they most desire, the young men of the city will be summoned to a joint conference that a program may be worked out in which both can participate.

Three delegates from the Burbank Business Women's Club were present: Miss Lesuer, president; Mrs. Clark, vice-president, and Mrs. Horn, chairman of the occupational committee.

They were all called upon and responded with interesting accounts of the work that is being done by this very successful young club which has an active membership of about 60.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

AUTO OWNERS ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO OFFER USE OF CARS FOR BOY SCOUTS

L. F. Collins Will Be Glad to Have Names of the People Who Will Help Transport Boys to Camp Site Near Lake Arrowhead

Burbank Boy Scouts will receive blank applications for the scout camp today. The announcement tells of the trip which is to be July 10 to 19 at "Camp Royl-Kent, situated in the Angelus national forest, 3 1-2 miles from Lake Arrowhead, where Hook creek joins Bear creek. The camp is surrounded by towering pine, fir and alder trees," the pamphlet says.

"Special permission has been granted by the Verdugo Hills district by the United States forestry service for the use of the campsite. A good mountain road leads to the campsite from Lake Arrowhead. A more beautiful and ideal spot for a Boy Scout camp would be hard to find anywhere."

Scout Executive Harold Benner will be the resident manager for the camp. Walter Wescott, Eagle and Jamboree scout, will supervise scout activities and camp fire programs.

Each troop will be required to arrange its own transportation to the camp. The distance is about 90 miles over good roads. Men of Burbank are cordially invited to offer automobiles for transportation for the boys and their equipment.

There will be a four-day patrol leaders' conference prior to the opening of the camp. Only patrol leaders or senior patrol leaders who have signed up for one of the ten day troop camps will be extended the privilege of attending this conference.

There will be a camp bank maintained, in which every scout will be asked to deposit his spending money so that it will not get lost. Fifteen cents a day will be the allowance for candy or sweets. Nonsectarian chapel services will be conducted every Sunday morning. Parents and members of the Verdugo Hills district council are urged to visit the camp on Saturday and Sundays.

Activities include swimming, boating, fishing, hiking, life saving signaling, first aid, nature study, tracking, games, contests and many other scout activities. Every day begins with outdoor action and ends with the magic of the camp fire. There will be plenty of time of games and chances for outdoor scout tests and merit badges.

The attractive folders which are being mailed out to the scouts includes a list of what to take to camp. It says:

VOTES TO PUT IN 2 NEW CLASSES AT EDISON

Burbank Board of Education Sponsors New Feature

Another new school venture this next year will be the supervised play at the Edison school building grounds. There will be competent playground instructors during the afternoon from 1 to 5 p. m. from July 2 to August 10. Every child in town will be welcome.

With supervised play it is hoped to develop the spirit of fair play, co-operation, sincerity and honesty. It will eradicate the spirit of combativeness that thrives when the child is permitted to play in the streets.

The undertaking means a big stride forward for Burbank in its civic welfare work. Another big project upon which the board is to be congratulated is the action taken to have two new rooms next year, one room for the exceptionally bright children.

For the past few years great attention has been paid to the subnormal child, the child who is slow in acquiring knowledge, but the children who will eventually be among the leaders of the community have not received this attention.

So the Burbank board of education plans to look out for both types of pupils. There will be the "development" room, sometimes called the "opportunity room," and also an adjustment room.

Miss Farrar and Mrs. Pershing will have charge of these rooms, with a limit of 20 in each one.

Other business transacted at the board meeting was the signing of the contracts with all the teachers who are here at present.

Allison & Allison, the best school architects, will have their plans for the two additional rooms on the Joaquin Miller school and the one room on the Abraham Lincoln school out in short time so that the work will be completed before fall.

BURBANK BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL SPONSOR FREE SUMMER SCHOOL FOR SIX WEEKS

Course Will Be for Three Classes of Children and Marks a New Step in Eduaction and Will Help Ma Out With the Care of the Child

Burbank is to have a new venture this summer when the board of education will sponsor a free summer school. The school will be for three types of pupils. Leonard F. Collins, superintendent of the grammar schools, has sent out the following notice to parents in regard to the summer school:

There will be a summer school held at the grammar school for six weeks this summer. The work will be entirely free of charge.

The summer school is being established to help the following groups of pupils:

1. Those who have fallen behind in their work because of sickness or accident.

2. Those who have especial difficulty with some particular studies and need a summer course to catch up with their class.

3. Those who are decidedly ahead of their class and who with an intensive summer course will be able to do the work of the next grade. There are only a few of these latter and they are selected by the teachers.

The summer school will be conducted from July 2 to Aug. 10 (six weeks). The hours will be from 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 m. The board plans to establish four rooms. Not more than 20 may be enrolled to a room.

Parents who wish to enroll pupils should see the proper classroom teacher as early as possible or Miss Farra, as there may not be room.

We are very desirious that those who need the work most shall be enrolled first.

LUTHERAN CHURCH APPROACHES UNITY

[By Associated Press]

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., June 13. The unification of all synodical units of the Lutheran Church in America has received an impetus during the last year that bids fair to a realization of the hope that the church be put under one head and known as one great denomination, according to a statement issued here by O. C. Michelman, former president of the Lutheran Students' Association of America.

"All indications point to a complete unification within a short time," said Mr. Michelman. "The indications of this are the emphatic tendency toward increased use of the American language and the unanimous adoption of the constitution of the Lutheran Students' Association of America. This document endorsed by that is without doubt the most representative body of Lutherans of all synodical affiliations, proposes to 'afford means whereby Lutheran students in America may consider their common problems in conformity with the common faith of the Lutheran church of America.' This latter body, the Lutheran Church of America, is not a real organization as yet, but it is an ideal toward which this students' group strives.

"The student body is composed of Lutherans of the two large Lutheran bodies, viz., the Synodical Conference and the United Lutheran Church in America. The former has in its membership a few more than half of all Lutheran individuals in the United States.

"The student body may be atributed to several movements. The National Lutheran Council began its activity with the American Relief Administration in the cantonments in the fields during and since the war. The Lutheran Brotherhood of America had 'huts' for the men of the church, regardless of the more particular synodical affiliation of the 'buddy,' and in its effort to find employment for the vast machinery developed for war work, fell upon the idea of continuing working among the students of the Lutheran church at large.

"The foreign language congregation is fast disappearing. But one such congregation exists—and that has only an indefinite life—among more than a hundred congregations of a branch synod of the United Lutheran Church of America. As is true of the German, in the instance just cited, is true also among Swedish and other foreign language congregations. It is this demand for the native American language in their church that has also brought with it a desire for more uniformity and thus of unity in the Lutheran church."

GRADUATION DRESSES

Graduation season draws near and now that it is not considered good taste to wear costly or elaborate frocks one will find the most attractive models of sheer voile or crepe de chine. These are made by hand and are exquisitely dainty as well as surprisingly reasonable in price.

ROTARY CLUB PRESIDENT HAS CELEBRATION

Many Out of Town Guests Are Present at Meeting

Rotary club Tuesday noon celebrated the birthday anniversary of their president, Mayor J. C. Crawford. Every man who had a birthday this week was given the opportunity of giving a penny for each year of their life to Bert Cross, the man who collects fines. It is said that Mr. Crawford put in 39 and J. A. Small put in 38.

In addition to the song and laughter connected with the birthday celebrations, speakers from out of town entertained the Rotarians. J. A. Black, of Kansas City, visiting his nephew, George Karr, president of the Glendale club, in Glendale, was one of the speakers. Mr. Moyse, principal of the Glendale high school was another speaker.

Dr. Van Meter was appointed chairman of the public affairs committee at this time.

PERMITS NEED PLANTPEP TO AID THEM

The Burbank building inspector says the building permit office needs some "plantpep." Plantpep is a liquid sulphur fertilizer and germinant which Gustav Rasmus of Glendale declares will stimulate the laziest of plants to grow as if by magic.

Something should be done to help the growth of permits, for Tuesday's only amounted to $1500. They were issued to: E. P. Wurtz, dwelling, Mariposa street, in Shelton gardens, $1000; F. E. Blackman, 128 Providencia avenue, $500.

THIS IS PROPER WAY TO PLANT DAHLIAS

Scientific Planting and Care Will Insure Choice Bloom for Show

The dahlia committee is issuing instructions for the amateur dahlia raisers who are aiding in the campaign to make Eagle Rock in reality as well as in title, "the Dahlia City." The first of these from J. J. Broomall, the local dahlia specialist, will be of special interest to the many school children who have purchased dahlia bulbs this week through the P.-T.A.

Planting the Dahlia

About a week before planting time, if the ground is not already sufficiently moist, it should be thoroughly wet two feet deep. Light sandy soil will be fit to dig two or three days after wetting but in clay or adobe soils it will be necessary to wait longer, as such soils should never be dug or planted when they are wet enough to be sticky; if the lumps crumble easily when struck with the back of a spade, then it will do to dig.

In digging ground for dahlias, it is not sufficient to merely turn each spadeful upside down in its original position, as the soil is never well stirred or completely pulverized by so doing. There should be a space of two feet between the dug and the undug ground. The ground should be dug at least 18 inches deep. To do this a second spading should be made In the miniature pit created should be placed all the weeds, leaves, old dahlia stalks, and every kind of available litter that will decay within the year's time. This should be placed between the undug and the dug soil. Fine brush may sometimes be used in heavy soils if it is deeply covered with soil. In this way the soil is made more fertile, and more easily worked in later years.

In planting a single row of dahlia bulbs, plant them at least three feet apart; unless they are desired for hedge effect. If more than one row is wanted, they should be four feet apart.

Make the holes five and six inches deep, so that the upper side of the tuber will be four inches below the surface. Lay the tubers in a horizontal position with the eyes or sprouts, if any are showing, uppermost. Never stand them on end. Half the inexperienced amateurs in planting think that a dahlia tuber should stand up on end. The first thing that an unsprouted dahlia tuber does after being planted is to throw out feeding rootlets from the end of the tuber furthest from the eye and four inches deep provides the most favorable conditions for quick and healthy root action. If it is stood on end, the lower end will be eight or nine inches deep in the cold soil, where quick root action is impossible, and if the tuber happens to be wrong end up, imagine the struggles of that delicate sprout being obliged to start out in life under such unfavorable conditions.

After the tubers have been properly planted, let them alone. Do not attempt to drown them, for in heavy soil you might succeed.

Dahlias well planted should not be watered until they are in bud for bloom. A plant uses moisture in proportion to the amount of foliage it develops, so that until the tops are well developed there should be, under normal conditions, sufficient moisture in the soil to keep the plants in good growing condition. After the plants are up, they should be well sprayed with clear water at least once a week in order to keep the foliage clean and healthy and to prevent injurious insects attacking them; and about every ten days the ground should be hoed deeply, except within six inches of the plants, where it should be lightly stirred.

EAGLE ROCK NEWS

LOCAL FIRM BUYS 'SENTINEL' FROM W. L. MILLER

Willey & Haimbaugh Purchase Weekly Newspaper

The Eagle Rock Sentinel has been sold to the local firm of Willey & Haimbaugh, 131 S. Central avenue. Mr. Haimbaugh states that there is little to be said at present regarding plans other than that Mr. Page Wright, of San Diego, will take charge as managing editor. No definite date is announced as to when the new owners will take charge, although the change will be effected in the very near future. The force will remain much as it is at present.

The Eagle Rock Sentinel, weekly, has been owned and edited by W. L. Miller for the past twelve years. Mr. Miller has devoted all his time and energy to building it up to the present status. He took it with a subscription list of 300, and aimed for an ultimate number of 1000. He has had the pleasure of accomplishing this aim.

Mr. Miller has been unable to pursue his office duties regularly for some time, owing to the severe attack of pneumonia which he suffered two months ago. His weakened condition has forced him to leave the bulk of the work to his competent employees. Mrs. Miller, who has been his assistant in the office, is also called away from her work by illness.

W. L. Miller has made hosts of friends here through his conscientious interest in local civic and social affairs, and many will learn with regret that he is giving up the Sentinel.

ENGLAND WORRIED OVER EMIGRATION

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, May 22.—Great Britain is worried over the increasing number of skilled artisans and domestic servants who want to take up their abodes in the United States. The stream of emigrants which has flocked from these shores to America has caused a special committee of the government to inquire into the causes.

Only the exhaustion of the annual quota of British subjects eligible to enter the United States under the percentage law has prevented tens of thousands of others from pitching their tents under the Stars and Stripes.

With the exception of France and Germany, practically every nation is now barred from sending emigrants to America until next July, when the new annual quota begins. Already the steamer bookings from the United Kingdom to America for July, August and September are full.

"America may still be the melting pot," remarks the Westminster Gazette editorially, "but its legislators are keeping a stricter eye on the metals which go into the alloy than ever before. The British race is given a certain measure of flattery in an evident disposition to welcome more of its members, but that is scarcely surprising when we discover that the people whom we send are in large measure domestic servants and skilled workers, neither of whom we can afford to lose."

"Aren't you going to congratulate me, wife? Why, I was just released from the pen today after serving out a sentence of five years," said the ex-convict.

His long-suffering wife looked up wearily from her work. "Many happy returns," she said, "I wish you many happy returns."

Arguing on a matter of business, two men so far forgot their dignity as to threaten each other with physical violence. One declared his intention of pulling the other's ears.

"If he tries to do that he will find his hands full," said the threatened one when repeating what had occurred.

And he wondered why his friends smiled.

THREE HUNDRED TO ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL

Free Tuition Draws Unusually Large Number of Students

The Eagle Rock summer school this year, owing to the offer of free tuition, made possible by annexation to Los Angeles, will have the largest attendance in its history. Three hundred students are already listed for the half day sessions.

Not more than 250 students were anticipated, but this number has already been exceeded by application, and a number of others expected. Eight teachers have been appointed to teach during the summer, but ten will probably be required to handle the classes capably.

MUSIC IS ASSET IN THE HOME

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, June 12.—The way to counteract the demoralizing and disruptive influence that draw young people more and more away from the home to seek recreation and pleasure elsewhere, is not by criticising and attacking them, but by constructive educational work, Robert W. Lyon, secretary of the American Better Home bureau told the Music Industries chamber of commerce of the United States here today.

This kind of a campaign will stimulate interest in the home and teach people how to make their homes so attractive that their young people will not be so easily lured away," Mr. Lyon added. "In this program, music in the home should play one of the most important roles.

"We are trying to teach the people that beautiful homes are within reach of every income, however small, but this educational work cannot end with the mere physical construction and adornment of the home. The home that is to hold the love and focus the interest of youth must be dynamic and not static. There must be something doing, and one of the most powerful means of keeping the young folks at home is to make that 'something doing' music.

"I believe that the player piano and the phonograph have done more in the last 25 years to create a desire for good music in the home than all the work of all the orchestras, operas, concert singers and teachers of music that went before them.

"With all the facilities that science and ingenuity have placed at the disposal of everybody, there is no longer any excuse for any home not having music, and good music.

"The great work of selling the American home back to the American people has only just begun. It is the work of a lifetime to which hundreds of earnest, unselfish men and women have consecrated their lives."

They sat at a cafe table. The poet was soaring. He talked of the mighty poets of the past. His friend, avoiding the eye of the waiter, had little to say.

"I wish Burns and Keats were with us tonight," declared the poet. "That would be a meeting."

"Um," said the other.

"Sir, you do not enthuse over the poets of the past. Would you not swell with pride to have them with us?"

"Oh, it would be very fine," answered his practical friend. "But who'd buy dinner?"

NEW TONES IN OVERSTUFFED SHOWN

Trice Furniture Co. Displays Living Room Set in Pleasing Colors

Something new and attractive in the living room furniture to be seen at the Trice Furniture Co., 118 W. Broadway, is the mohair overstuffed set, in a silver grey tone showing an undertone of wine red, softly blending through the floral design.

These colors, combined with mahogany or dark walnut, form one of the most attractive living room sets. Mr. Trice announces that a shipment of silk rugs, made in the east, has just arrived, and that the tones in these rugs blend pleasingly with those in the furniture.

MRS. THOMAS HAS RECEPTION FOR MRS. HASKINS

LA CRESCENTA, June 13.—To meet Mrs. H. A. Haskins, the newly elected president of the La Crescenta Woman's Club, Mrs. Seymour Thomas asked a number of past presidents of the club to tea yesterday afternoon. The invited guests included Mrs. F. H. Anderson, Mrs. M. S. Collins, Mrs. H. S. Bissell, Mrs. C. E. Culberson and Mrs. E. N. Nettleton.

The farmer scowled. "Those dandelions," he said, "they are a perfect pest. They are running over the good country. I wish we knew how to get rid of them," The expert thought for an instant, then he said, "I have it! We'll post up bills giving the recipe for dandelion wine."

JUNE ROMANCE

Another Glendale couple yesterday added their names to the list of the happily wedded during the month of June.

They are Miss Veronica Williams who became the bride of George B. Harold, both formerly of Brooklyn, New York. Father Galvin, of the Holy Family Catholic church performed the sacred rites yesterday morning at the church chapel.

Miss Clara Fitzgibbons, bridesmaid, and A. Clements, best man, were the attendants. The guests included Mrs. A. Williams, mother to the bride, and son, William, Mr. and Mrs. Madden White, Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Lanahan and Mrs. F. D. Buckland.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the Golden Spanish Inn, on South Orange street, amid delightful surroundings. An archway added attractiveness to the festal board, where a huge boquet of red roses formed the decoration.

Mr. and Mrs. Herold will be at home to their friends at 901 East Windsor road.

BIG BAN JOHNSON STAGES COME BACK

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

Not the least of the comebacks that have added so much color to the 1923 sport season and one of the most prominent of the veterans who have been tearing down the old idea about youth's advantages over age, is Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

Ban is back in the political saddle of baseball, apparently just as strong as ever, after having been thrown out three years ago.

After making the American League, Johnson made the mistake of over-reaching himself and his assumption of the role of baseball dictator became so obnoxious to some of the American League club owners and all of the National League magnates, that an organized campaign was adopted to curb his power.

With the support of five American League clubs, Johnson was able to resist the attack of the New York Yankees, the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox, but he was forced to capitulate and virtually abdicate when the National League clubs joined forces with the Yanks, White Sox and Red Sox and threatened to form a new 12-league club.

Johnson was thereby clubbed into agreeing to a new form of government in which Judge K. M. Landis was made commissioner of baseball and was vested with all the power that Johnson had taken unto himself.

Until this spring, Johnson had remained in passive submission to the new order of things but he has broken out new by killing off the enemies within his own family circle and there is no telling how far he will go.

* * *

With all the faults of vanity, greed for power and ingratitude, Johnson's enemies have held him up as possessing, it must be admitted that Ban Johnson was responsible for the prestige that the American League enjoys and that his achievements show that he has sought as much to make the American League prosper as he has to advance his own private and personal interests.

Johnson tried to keep the league well balanced and provided good baseball all over the circuit. He succeeded fairly well until Henry Frazee bought the Boston Red Sox and turned the club into an auction market.

For three years Johnson tried to get Frazee out of baseball and restore Boston to the place that it once held in American League baseball. He didn't succeed until this year.

Had Col. T. L. Huston, Charles Comiskey and Harry Frazee not warred so on Johnson, it is certain that the New York Yankees would not have been able to pick a championship club for the mere picking and that Boston would have something other than a disgrace in the American League.

Johnson, it is understood, wants to put Bobby Quinn, vice-president of the St. Louis Browns, in as president of the Red Sox and he also has designs to get Tris Speaker back in Boston as manager.

It would take all of Johnson's old power and influence to get Speaker away from Cleveland, but Ban seems to be back as strong as he ever was.

Johnson always was a fighter and he showed more fight than was ever thought to possess when he battled his way back to his old place, after he had been beaten and beaten badly.

* * *

Perhaps the National League will learn before the end of this season that business will not be so good with one club making a runaway race for the pennant.

The National League should do something about the disgraceful Phillies. Ban Johnson's aggressiveness in dealing with the situation in Boston offers a few suggestions that the National League might well follow in Philadelphia.

In handling its own Boston situation, the National League made a very wise move in getting Christy Mathewson in at the head of the club, but even the personality of Mathewson may not offset the popularity that would return to the Red Sox if the old Sox idol, Speaker, returned as manager of the club.

Truths in Epigram

Manners must adorn knowledge and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond, it may do well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value.—Chesterfield.

If he does really think that there is no distinction between virtue and vice, why, sir, when he leaves our houses let us count our spoons.—Samuel Johnson.

NATIONAL NEEDS RECOGNIZED

Secretary Weeks of the war department recently called a conference of religious and welfare workers. The object was to get an expression of their views touching the subject of pacifism. The desired expression was frankly given. Coming from such source it must be considered as fairly representative, and entitled to much weight. It contrasts vividly with the current utterances of social agitators, who, under whatever name, and whatever ostensible purpose, are doing the work of communists, and unwittingly or not, have assumed the role of enmity to their country.

These religious advisors included Protestants, Catholics and Jews. They were in perfect agreement in the assertion that peace at home and abroad was the mission to which America was devoted, and added this:

"To pursue it unarmed and undefended would be the quickest way to invite war."

On the committee was a Methodist bishop, the moderator of Congregational churches, the secretary of the Catholic Welfare Council, and a colonel of the Salvation Army. All of them believed in national preparedness. They held, truly, that America had traditionally set her face against militarism, declaring on this point:

"Militarism is absolutely strange to the genius of her institutions. Her army in time of war is a citizen army; her army in time of peace is a voluntary army. Civilians direct her army and navy; the existence and upkeep of both are contingent upon the will of a representative congress."

They affirmed that the army and navy always had been essential to the life of the republic, and should therefore command the respect of every true citizen. Pacifism was scored in the following terms:

"We deprecate any attempt made under the cloak of religion and in the name of a false pacifism, to deny the support of churches to the well-being of our army and navy."

The conference was quite fully reported in the news columns, but because it may have been overlooked by many, the essence of it is repeated here. There is solid comfort in contemplation of it. It will be recalled to mind as often as the red is heard mouthing his hatred, or the misguided zealot raises his voice to protest against the agencies that enable this to be a land of law and order, and effective in helping to keep civilization a going concern.

HARDSHIPS OF IMMIGRATION

The aged mother of a Los Angeles capitalist arrived in this country from Ireland, landing at New Orleans. Her purpose was to visit her son. Upon landing she was informed that she must go back immediately, because the immigration quota of Ireland had been filled. This was the strict and obviously harsh construing of the law. While it would be a matter of regret could loopholes be created in the statutes to suit personal convenience, it nevertheless seems that a law failing to permit the exercise of reasonable intelligence might be termed too rigid.

Doubtless the purpose of the restriction is to prevent too great an influx. It is not desirable that more should be allowed to come than may be assimilated. While labor is to be guarded against too sharp a competition of aliens, and industry is to have enough labor to keep it functioning normally, it is clear that a limit must be set. It also is clear that the presence of one elderly lady as a guest of her financially responsibe son, is not calculated to upset, or even to impair material prosperity.

This passenger if legally and properly to be prevented from entering the United States should have been so informed in time to prevent her from taking a useless voyage. When an American official on the other side had vised her passports, in simple fairness, she should have been allowed to come in. She was wronged when given to understand that her passport would be honored. She was acting in good faith. Not so much may be said of the official; or if he was acting in good faith, his government incurred an obligation, discharge of which is refused when the passenger is turned back.

THE SCIENTIFIC VIEW

The address of Dr. Robert A. Milliken to the graduating class of the California Institute of Technology, not only befitted the occasion, but was of wide interest to thinking people. It was, to a certain extent, an exposition of the progress that had been due to science. It pointed to the promise of achievement.

The human race, so short a time out of the jungle has advanced thus far in large measure, because of the knowledge acquired by scientific research. Science deals with the actual. Evolution tells the story of mankind. Science traces the tale chapter by chapter.

Contrast between what the science that deals with the physical has accomplished, and that which has been accomplished by metaphysics, it appears to the observer, is much in favor of the former. At least the former deals with certainties. Such theories as it postulates must be sustained by demonstration. It does not wander in devious and shadowy paths conjecturing, but it strives to know. There has been among metaphysicians a marked trend in the direction of highly specialized psychology. This has led to the expounding of extraordinary doctrines, to be accepted on faith if accepted at all. The results include the findings of such men as Frued, often obscene, and generally to be classed as "far-fetched." From such study the drift into the occult is easy. To devote oneself to study of the occult, and at the same time retain a balanced mind, is a task of extreme difficulty. Many who sought to follow such a course have failed pitifully.

There are great problems to be solved relating to the utilities upon which must depend the continued and harmonious development of mankind. These problems are faced boldly by the scientist, and he is a pioneer on the path to triumph over the forces of nature. The good he does is definite, recognizable, and must be acknowledged.

ABUSE OF BAIL

Several young men accused of crimes for which hanging would have been too moderate a penalty, were released on bonds of $500 each. Such procedure is not to be termed anything less than outrageous. In the first place there is an absurdity in the idea that such offenses should be regarded as bailable. The proper course would have been an immediate hearing, and a trial with as little delay as possible. If there was lacking the evidence to hold the prisoners, they had the right of freedom. In the presence of the evidence, they should have been held under heavy bail. While the constitution inhibits "excessive" bail, hardly is it to be assumed that the framers believed themselves authorizing such a course as turning loose upon the community a band of rabid degenerates. So far as a person accused is entitled to protection, there cannot be objection to according it. Such a person cannot be entitled to protection if the protective process exposes society to danger from him.

One of the accused was caught by a group of indignant citizens and flogged nearly to death. This never could have happened had the law dealing with the man not been criminally lax in application. Much as mob rule is detested, if there is no other law operating on behalf of justice, mob law is inevitable. It is singular that officials engaged in the administration of justice, gentle as they had been with a degraded malefactor, were quick to seize the men who sought to avenge a nameless outrage, and more severe with them than with the destroyer of girlhood.

Or to put the matter in a nutshell, criminals must be punished.

NEWS OF THE STARS

By Isabel M. Lewis

JUPITER AND SATURN NOW BRILLIANT IN THE EVENING SKY

The two largest planets of the solar system, Jupiter and Saturn, may now be found early in the evening not many degrees apart in the constellation of Virgo. There will be no difficulty in identifying Jupiter because it is the brightest stellar object above the horizon at this time. Venus, to be sure, always far exceeds all the stars and planets in brightness, including Jupiter. But Venus is now a morning star and can be seen only by those who are up before the sun.

Jupiter crosses the meridian due south about 9 p. m. the middle of June and Saturn about 7:20 p. m. on the same date. Saturn now lies only a few degrees northwest of the brilliant, white, first-magnitude star Spica in Virgo and very slightly surpasses it in brightness. In fact, only a trained eye would now detect any difference in brightness between the white star Spica and the yellowish planet Saturn. During the summer and early fall Saturn will gradually draw nearer to Spica until on the first of October it will lie about four and a half degrees due north of Spica. During this time it will change very slightly in brightness owing to its great distance from the earth. Jupiter now lies nearly on the border line between the constellations of Virgo and Libra and is slowly moving westward. By the end of the first week in July it will reach its farthest point westward, close to its present position, and will then move slowly eastward for the remainder of the year, passing from Libra into Scorpio late in the fall. Both plants, therefore, will continue to be visible in the evening throughout the summer, coming to the meridian earlier each evening as the constellations in which they are located gradually shift westward.

The question of the probable surface temperatures of the planets is one that seems to have aroused considerable interest among astronomers recently and there have been estimates made, based upon modern methods of investigation, that may change some of the views that were formerly held on this subject. Particularly is this so in the case of the outer planets that are largely gaseous in their constitution. It was formerly held that these bodies were semi-suns and that in fact it might be possible that they were emitting a considerable quantity of heat to their satellites. Recent measurements of planetary radiations show, however, that the heat radiations from the planets Jupiter and Saturn are practically nil. There is no great outpouring of heat from these planets to their satellites and there is reason for believing that the surface temperatures of both Jupiter and Saturn lie far below zero. There may be, and probably is, a gradual seepage of internal heat to the surface of these planets, though not in sufficient quantities to modify the intense cold that must prevail upon the surfaces of the numerous satellites that revolve about these huge bodies. Jupiter has nine satellites and Saturn ten, in addition to the numberless bodies of meteoric size that make up the substance of its three rings. These satellites range in size from bodies equal to or greater than Mercury to tiny objects not over twenty miles in diameter. At the enormous distance from the sun at which they lie, devoid of atmospheres and with no appreciable heat furnished to them from the planets about which they revolve, these small worlds must have surface temperature close to the absolute zero of space.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

EFFECT OF "WITH"

(Find the error in this article)

Nelson Howestoll writes that he does not agree with "The Right Word" when it was stated in this column that the verb is should be substituted for are in the following sentence:

"In the meantime, Miss Raynor together with other readers of this column are challenged . . . "

"The way to put it," says Mr. Howestoll, "together with other readers must necessarily be understood as meaning and other readers, and the verb should therefore be are."

The right word is the verb is, a singular, like it always is in such constructions; as, The general with his staff was expected; The manager together with his assistants is very busy.

Vocabulary

Preclude means to render impossible or ineffectual by antecedent action; to prevent. Also, the word means to shut out; to exclude. Examples: Such an eventuality will be precluded by the step we are going to take; Your letter will preclude his coming.

Queries

M. A. V.: "Which is correct, I or me, in the following sentence: Catherine, May, and I (me) visited Coney Island Broadwalk Sunday"?

Answer: The right word is I. You would not say, "Me visited Coney Island."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Needy people.
All of us.
Interdependent people.
Not independent.

Civilization makes us all interdependent.
Leaning on each other.

* * *

Like a ten-story building.
Resting on a foundation.
With bricks and mortar and cement.
All dependent on each other.
If the foundation is weak, the structure fails.
If the cement is poor, the building is dangerous.

* * *

So in our social order.
The farmer is dependent.
Dependent on transportation.
On markets.
On shipping and machinery makers and a score of other things and people.

* * *

He is dependent on labor.
If an orchardist, on fruit pickers.
Packers.
Railroad and refrigeration.
Makers of ice.
Buyers.

* * *

And as we are industrially and agriculturally interdependent, so are we socially interdependent.
All needy people.
The writer has a story.
He needs a publisher.
Who needs ink and paper and labor.
And then he needs buyers.
Readers.

* * *

And the playwright needs a producer.
Who needs actors.
And a theatre.
And audiences.
One thing always calling for others.
Nothing standing by itself.

* * *

The rich are dependent.
On producers and workers and gardeners and manufacturers.
Sometimes on the doctor for health.
The lawyer for advice.
The preacher for comfort in time of trouble.

* * *

None of us is independent.
The worker is dependent on the employer for a job.
And the employer dependent on the worker for labor.

* * *

Neither of them can survive without the other.
The factory has its power and machinery and laborers and it is dependent on cotton growers or rubber gatherers or steel miners and workers for raw materials.
A blight in the cotton fields might throw a hundred thousand people thousands of miles away out of employment.

* * *

And that in turn might affect the market for foodstuffs so that the farmer would suffer.
And be unable to sell and to buy again.
To the difficulty of the manufacturer.
So all of us are needy.
None of us can prosper without the other.

* * *

It is so in a community.
It must prosper in all parts of it.
There cannot be beauty and squalor abiding together in harmony and prosperity.

* * *

So let us realize our common needs.
Each add his share to the common wealth and weal.
And distribute the things of labor and education and manufacture and growth as fairly as we can.
So that all may share reasonably.

Songs of the Poets

"The Woods that Bring the Sunset Near"—By Richard Watson Gilder

The wind from out the west is blowing;
The homeward-wandering cows are lowing;
Dark grow the pine-woods, dark and drear—
The woods that bring the sunset near.

When o'er wide seas the sun declines,
Far off its fading glory shines—
Far off, sublime, and full of fear—
The pine-woods bring the sunset near.

This house that looks to east, to west,
This, dear one, is our home, our rest;
Yonder the stormy sea, and here
The woods that bring the sunset near.

MORAL MICROBES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN ONE of H. G. Wells' fanciful tales he brings the strange men from the planet Mars to this earth; they ravage and devour human beings; all our cannon are impotent to harm them, who have their terrific "heat-ray," which can send a whole city up in smoke; but at last they are conquered—by the microbe; they die of fever.

It is not the single great crises that make or mar life; it is the swarm of petty thoughts and feelings that we breed in our subconsciousness.

There seem to be spiritual bacilli. Most moral diseases come from minute and secret forces. Religious fanaticism, where people believe the most idiotic things with a frenzy of self-giving, exactly resemble those "catching" diseases that infect bodies. Those striking collapses of character, where perfectly respectable people go off into the wildest perversions, are like as if they had been bitten by some septic mosquito. Most criminal conditions of the soul seem malarial.

In our studies of ethics we have devoted too much space to theological telescopy and not enough to psychological microscopy.

"Man," says Henri Fabre, the great French naturalist, "cuts through the neck of continents to join two seas; he pierces the Alps; he weighs the sun; and he cannot prevent a wretched maggot from enjoying his cherries before he does, nor an odious louse from destroying his vines. The Titan is vanquished by the pigmy."

Some time ago I attended a dinner where some two hundred elderly gentlemen of supposed importance were discussing the League of Nations. There was a good deal said about war one way or other. There was something I wanted to say but I didn't say it. It was about in this wise.

"Here you are discussing the question of war. Yet not one of you is ever liable to be killed by war or impoverished by war. There is not much likelihood of any great war for the next few years and most of you will be dead within a generation.

"Yet there is one enemy that is threatening you all, it is the microbe. You are all going to die sometime of hardening of the arteries, kidney trouble or ptomaine poisoning or something of the kind. The soldiers of the microbe army will not probably get you, they will get you with absolute certainty.

"Beside this the moral microbe will attack you, they will eat into your reputation and destroy your happiness.

"Wouldn't it be a deal more simple to be taking measures to combine together to combat the army of the microbe than to discuss how you shall best shoot and poison and maim your fellow men.

"Why go on discussing how to quarrel with your allies when you are all facing a common enemy?"

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NO HALF-WAY HOUSE

[Hartford Times]

Mrs. Katharine Fullerton Gerould writes in Harper's Magazine on "Hollywood: An American State of Mind." She finds optimism the American disease. "When we praise, we know no limit." Everything must be the greatest of its kind in all history, or it is nothing. Medicines are sure cures; personality courses are guaranteed to produce charm upon the most unpromising material; etiquette books make Chesterfields of Calibans; and beauty creams make Mary Pickfords of women who originally resembled Queen Elizabeth.

The reverse of this state of mind also has its effect upon our psychology. Just as a good thing must be the best ever, so must a less desirable thing be the worst ever known. Was there ever a land so beset by menaces, treasonable pacts and other unmentionables as this one? The League of Nations is either the savior of the world or a crime against nationality. The fact that it is neither does not deter our enthusiasts from their panegyrics and their condemnations. Mild protestations against profiteering are denounced as "financed from Moscow." Mild defences of the right to put money in the savings bank arouse shrieks about the "hirelings of the money trust." America, is either the "land of the free and the home of the brave" or she is a "place where men are put in jail for believing in the Einstein theory"—according to the point of view. There is no half-way house in America.

Perhaps the reason is, as Mrs. Gerould suggests, that so many people in America are not really educated but merely trained. Education is really a matter of humility of mind in the face of the vast amount nobody can ever know about creation. This attitude is hardly encouraged by the schools and "courses" which din into American ears the idea that "you are what you think you are" and that "you can be what you will" and that "the world is looking for men with the Punch." All of which encourages people in the pernicious habit of riding hobbies, not as hobbies, but as war-horses. A man with a pet idea is harmless until he thinks it is the complete finality of divine purpose.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is no particular reason for believing that a woman jury is different from any other, excepting that it is likely to be less foolish.

With a jury wholly masculine, no pretty defendant need fear to go on trial. No matter what may be the evidence against her. So that she have a winning smile, and a costume reasonably becoming, she is safe. Her lawyer knows that all he must do to win, or to bring about a disagreement, is to call attention to the helpless innocence of his guilty client. The cockles of some heart in the jurybox are certain to be warmed to the extent that discretion vanishes.

Strange as it may seem, women, supposed to be tender, more sentimental, are prone to be guided by the facts and the law, quite ignoring pulchritude and palaver.

Doubtless juries of both kinds, or of the mixed variety, do the best they can ordinarily. It is only when the members can be made maudlin that they lose their mental poise; and the men get that way more readily.

Not long ago a jury of women convicted a man of speeding. He had insisted on having a jury unmarred by male presence. This was because a previous jury, all men, had found him guilty of bootlegging. At the time of the second trial he was under sentence of a year in jail. He paid his $50 fine for speeding, and now he is paying twenty-four hours daily on the old account.

It is said that he holds juries of every sort at a very low estimate.

Allies seem in a mood to regulate the military affairs of Germany, a suspicion having arisen that the process of disarmament has progressed but haltingly.

With Germany in the mood that it is at present, and with the likelihood that the mood will continue, there could be no wisdom in letting it have guns to play with.

Talk about the "next war" grows tiresome. The ease with which France is to exterminate London, consuming an hour or so before lunch for the operation, begins to excite the opinion that some writer has gone nutty. The remarks upon the intent and the capacity of any European power to destroy every American seaport, and the certainty that no opposition to such course could be effective, calls for an inquiry into the sanity of scribbling gossips.

Theories based on the conviction that the world is nothing but an aggregation of murderous passion; that it has no sensible thought, that in fact, it is a collective idiot, wear on the patience.

To settle this grave matter there was to be a special board of inquiry.

Long ago Beadle Bumble said the law was an ass. Evidence of the correctness of his view crops up every little while.

However, it seems impossible that the law could be so long-eared an ass as indicated by the dispatch. Somebody must be trying to have fun with it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Now and then one runs his head up against a stone wall of fact. The particular stone wall against which I butted this morning is the undeniable truth that we do not all think alike. Our ambitions differ. One prefers independence and the other safety. There you are. What is to be done about it?

"I'm making out my papers," said the Big Chief this morning. "I'm sure of a civil service job."

Heaven forbid that I should belittle civil servants. The blessed old world could not continue to function without them. But the essential element in a civil service job is that one's future is cut out and pasted together. At twenty-five years of age the salary is so much. At forty so much. At sixty-five—is it sixty-five?—one retires on an allowance which is helped out by more or less voluntary contributions from the sons and daughters one has thoughtfully amassed. It is a safe, sound, secure existence, without a thrill or a shock to a century of it. But the Big Chief isn't fit for that sort of life.

He can do things. He is handy with his hands, he can do miracles with tools, he is desperately honest, every one likes him, and he can work like a pair of Missouri mules. For a year or so he has been a mechanic in a garage. In that time three or four wise business men have offered to stake him to a garage of his own. No doubt they would have gobbled the major end of the profits, that being the reason why they made the offer, and that being the custom of capital ever since capital was. But the Big Chief would have ultimately become an independent business man. For that matter, he has saved enough money to back himself.

"But I might go broke," he said in answer to my remonstrances.

"Mighty-Break-of-Day! Think of a kid of twenty-six worrying about that! Fearing to play his few hundred dollars against being his own boss! Bah!

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Gifts that Last

Graduation is intended as something to be remembered; therefore, special exercises are held. Best speakers give the commencement talks, and a diploma is given to record the fact that the student is ready to attend a seat of higher learning.

If Graduation Day is intended to be remembered, why not give graduation gifts that will help hold that memory?

Jewelry is a "gift that lasts."

At our store you will find many gifts of the permanent sort: Watches, Rings, Bracelets, Earrings, and many others too numerous to mention.

Make your selections early.

Give ROSES for Graduation

FLOWERS Say More Than Words Can Express—

Graduation days call for an appreciation from friends and relatives of the graduate. Expensive gifts may not mean nearly so much as the less expensive remembrance. For the cost of the gift isn't the factor . . . the thought behind the expression is what counts.

Give YOUR graduate flowers . . . for flowers say more than words can express.

Before removing a new gas mantle from the box pass a thread through the loop at the top. Withdraw the mantle carefully, and then immerse it entirely in a glass of vinegar for a minute or two, leaving outside only the thread, the two ends of which should be tied together. Lift out and hang to dry; place on the burner fork, and burn off in the ordinary way. Gas mantles treated in this manner will not only last longer, but will give a more brilliant light.

JAMES W. FOLEY

A SONG OF PRAISE

The trees lift up their arms to Him,
The towering pine, the aspen slim,
The sturdy oak whose leaves far spread,
And I hear voices over head
In gently stirring leaves that raise
A softly murmured chant of praise.

The flowers upturn their faces, too,
The timid violet so blue,
The red-cheeked roses and dew-wet,
The pansy and the mignonette.
And all their fragrance seems to me
Their gift to prove His majesty.

And from the trees and in the grass
And by the hedge the song birds pass,
And swift wings flash and o'er and o'er
Their floods of melody outpour,
From bush and stalk and stem and limb
A very hymn of praise to Him.

Chant forth thy praise, ye whispering trees,
And bring thy gifts upon the breeze,
Ye fragrant flowers from hedge and limb,
Ye birds, sound forth thy song to Him.
And let my soul awake and be
A very part of life—and Thee!

WIRELESS NEWS DISPUTE UP TO HAGUE COURT

[By Associated Press]

THE HAGUE, June 12.—Property rights in news distributed by wireless is a subject now engaging the Dutch courts. One Dutch news agency sued another for intercepting and sending to its newspaper subscribers news sent to the first agency by wireless from a third agency in Berlin, each of the dispatches bearing as a prefix a notice that they were the copyright in Holland of the plaintiff agency which claimed payment at a specified rate for each message thus intercepted and distributed.

The president of the Hague Court has ordered the defendant agency immediately to cease intercepting the wireless messages which the plaintiffs claimed as their property, until it has been judicially decided whether such interception is illegal or not, and ordering the defendants in the former event to pay $10 for each item of news illegally intercepted and distributed.

MISSIONARY WORK IS REVIEWED AT ANNUAL COUNCIL

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, June 12.—The development of a Christian mission enterprise through an "inter-denominational and un-denominational organization" over a period of 36 years, is the history of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, as recorded here in the 26th annual council just closed.

The work began in 1887, and today the organization claims active ministration to 42,000,000 souls in every quarter of the globe. It is one of the few organizations working in the foreign fields whose program is founded upon a belief in the literal inspiration of the scriptures. The Whole Bible to the Whole World is the motto of the alliance.

The work is carried on through 150 foreign stations and approximately 1,000 workers in America. In distant lands the gospel is delivered in 18 fields and 22 languages.

The chief work of the alliance is in South America, China and India. Other spheres of activity are Japan, the Philippine islands, Porto Rico, Jamaica, Africa and Palestine. In America, the alliance maintains five extensive Bible schools, the largest of which is at Nyack, N. Y., with an enrollment of 400 students in training for work in foreign lands. In addition, there are throughout the country hundreds of affiliated churches, tract stations and branches.

WHITE RUSSIAN RED CROSS GIVES U. S. THANKS

MINSK, White Russia, April 30.—By Mail—Unstinted and sincere appreciation of America's aid to Russia was expressed here by the chairman of the White Russian Red Cross at a reception given in honor of the American Relief Administration. The occasion was the opening of the first clinic or the White Russian university, a circumstance made possible by the help and cooperation of the A. R. A. unit at Minsk.

"This work of relief is colossal," the speaker, who is also the government representative said, "and in better days, when White Russia has recovered from the wounds given by the war and invasion, we shall recall with gratitude this work of the A. R. A. and the work of its representatives."

Reviewing conditions following the European war, the destruction of countries and property and consequent evils of death and famine the government official declared that while other countries attempted to exploit Russia, "America has come to our relief in this bad time.

"And this we shall not forget," he concluded.

"I am pleased to ask the representatives of the A. R. A. here to accept our thanks and transmit it to the American Relief Administration for the help it has given us in the opening and organization of our clinics, and generally for the relief to needy children, the sick and invalids."

OLD MEXICO WINS CHILDREN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (United Press).—Attractions of Old Mexico are too much for thousands of California boys and girls who are trying to cross the border alone, contrary to customs regulations which require they be accompanied by parents or guardians. In the past six months 1,479 boys and 889 girls have been turned back from the border at Tia Juana, customs officials announced recently.
